St. J. A. Senior Reception.

A gay and more brilliant social event has not been witnessed in years, than the reception given by the seniors of St. Johnsbury Academy in the auditorium of the academy building Friday evening. Nearly the whole student body, and a host of the academy's friends, young and old, enjoyed and admired the decorations, which were done in the unique spider's web fashion. In the section of the huge web which extended across the platform, partially screening the orchestra, were the interwoven figures of 1917 on either side. The soft delicate shade of the red lights greatly assisted the old-fashioned fire place in giving the whole atmosphere a more homelike effect.

President Harris of the senior class led the grand march, during which the dance orders were distributed. Miss Christine Braley and Master Seymour Wright, in Dutch costume served refreshments of punch and v. a. Sargent's orchestra furnished music in its usual satisfactory manner. Too much credit cannot be awarded the reception committee of the Class of 1917, in whose charge the event was placed. The committee was composed of Stanton Harris, Eunice MacGillivray, Mary Dinsmore, Russell Bailey, Helen Steele, Norman Braley and Thora McClary. The affair was a huge success in every particular and the school may well feel proud of its outcome.

Merry Dozen Entertained

Mrs. E. J. Rutter was the hostess of a gathering of the Merry Dozen club Wednesday evening at her home on Railroad street. Readings were given by Mrs. Comings, a member of the club and a very pleasant evening enjoyed. Refreshments were served.

The Knyblers Entertained

The Knyblers were entertained by Miss Josephine Fisher at her home on Summer street, Thursday evening. A large number of the club members were present and a pleasant social evening enjoyed. Refreshments were served during the evening.
